Special Education: Stages of the Code of Practice

Definition and purpose

The Code of Practice is a five-stage approach used in identifying and supporting a pupil who has special needs. Stages 1 and 2 are carried out by the pupil’s school and parents should be kept informed of what is happening. At Stage 3 the school may request outside help, for example, from an educational psychologist. At Stage 4 a statutory assessment of the pupil’s needs could be necessary. At Stage 4 the Special Education Section of the Education Authority becomes involved.

If you are aware that your child has a special educational need you should let the school know so that help and support can be provided.

Use of Reasonable Force/Safe Handling Policy

Definition

Reasonable force and safe handling is about providing a safe and secure environment for the entire school community (pupils and staff) and promoting and sustaining appropriate behaviour. “Reasonable force” is the minimum force necessary to prevent a pupil from physically harming himself, herself or another or from seriously damaging property. Reasonable force should be used in a manner to preserve the dignity of all concerned, to resolve the situation and calm the pupil.

Purpose

The purpose of a Reasonable Force and Safe Handling policy is to create a learning environment in which young people and adults feel safe and are protected from harm. It aims to ensure that pupils are protected against any form of physical intervention which is unnecessary, inappropriate, excessive or harmful. It should inform staff about the circumstances in which they might use reasonable force to restrain pupils and how such force might be applied.
